I. MEDAL OF HONOR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD., 1918), the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty is awarded posthumously by the Department of the Army in the name of Congress to the following-named enlisted men:

Staff Sergeant Gus J. Kefurt (Army serial No. _____), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of the 15th Infantry Regiment, distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty on 23 and 24 December 1944, near Bennwihr, France. Early in the attack, Sergeant Kefurt jumped through an opening in a wall to be confronted with about 15 Germans. Although outnumbered, he opened fire, killing 10 and capturing the others. During a seesaw battle which developed, he effectively adjusted artillery fire on an enemy tank close to his position, although exposed to small-arms fire. When night fell, Sergeant Kefurt maintained a three-man outpost in the center of the town, in the middle of the German positions, and successfully fought off several hostile patrols attempting to penetrate our lines. Assuming command of his platoon the following morning, he led it in hand-to-hand fighting through the town until blocked by a tank. Using rifle grenades, he forced the surrender of its crew and some supporting infantry. Sergeant Kefurt then continued his attack from house to house against heavy machine-gun and rifle fire. Advancing against a strong point that was holding up the company, his platoon was subjected to a strong counterattack and infiltration to its rear. Suffering heavy casualties in their exposed position, the men remained there because of Sergeant Kefurt's personal example of bravery, determination, and leadership. He constantly exposed himself to fire by going from man to man to direct fire. During this time, he killed approximately 15 of the enemy at close range. Although severely wounded in the leg, he refused first aid and immediately resumed fighting. When the forces to his rear were pushed back 3 hours later, Sergeant Kefurt refused to be evacuated, but, during several more counterattacks, moved painfully about under intense small-arms and mortar fire stiffening the resistance of his platoon by encouraging individual men and by his own fire until he was killed. As a result of Sergeant Kefurt's gallantry, the position was maintained. (This award supersedes the award of the Silver Star to Staff Sergeant Kefurt, for gallantry in action on 23 and 24 December 1944, as published in General Orders 59, Headquarters 3d Infantry Division, 23 February 1945.)

Staff Sergeant John W. Minick (Army serial No. _____), Infantry, Army of the United States, a member of the 121st Infantry Regiment, displayed conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty in action involving actual conflict with the enemy on 21 November 1944, near Hurtgen, Germany. Sergeant Minick's battalion was halted in its advance by extensive mine fields, exposing troops to heavy concentrations of enemy artillery and mortar fire. Further delay in the advance would result in numerous casualties and a movement through the mine field was essential. Voluntarily, Sergeant Minick led four men through hazardous barbed wire and debris, finally making his way through the mine field for a distance of 300 yards. When an enemy machine gun opened fire, he signalled his men to take covered positions, edged his machine gun alone toward the flank of the enemy weapon, and opened fire, killing two members of the gun crew and capturing three others. Moving forward again, he encountered and engaged single-handedly an entire company, killing 20 Germans and capturing 20, and enabling his platoon to capture the remainder of the hostile group. Moving ahead and spearheading his battalion's advance, he again encountered machine-gun fire. Crawling forward toward the enemy weapon, he reached a point from which he knocked it out of action. Still another mine field had to be crossed. Undeterred, Sergeant Minick advanced forward alone through constant enemy fire and while thus moving, detonated a mine and was killed instantly.

II..DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted man:

Sergeant John G. Lally (Army serial No.) (then private), Medical Department, Army of the United States, displayed extraordinary heroism in combat against the enemy, on 20 January 1942, in the Philippine Islands. As a member of the Medical Detachment, 31st Infantry Regiment, Sergeant Lally, at the risk of his life, evacuated many of his wounded comrades from the firing line under heavy mortar and incessant sniper fire. Because of Sergeant Lally's heroism at that time, many were evacuated to a place of safety and some owed their lives to his courageous actions.

III..DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Colonel Clyde C. Alexander. (then brigadier general), Field Artillery, United States Army. July 1942 to November 1944. (This award supersedes the award of the Legion of Merit to Colonel Alexander, for service from 5 October 1942 to 24 April 1943, as published in General Orders 50, Headquarters, United States Army Forces in the Far East, 28 August 1943.)

IV..SILVER STAR.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (Bul. 43, WD, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officer and enlisted man:

Corporal Earl S. Crimmins (Army serial No.) (then private), Field Artillery, Army of the United States, a member of the 19th Field Artillery Battalion, displayed gallantry in action on 24 March 1945, near Trebur, Germany. When enemy infantry and tanks counterattacked the area, Corporal Crimmins, a driver, heedless of the great danger, left his place of cover and moved his vehicle to safety under heavy enemy automatic-weapons fire. Returning he manned a machine gun and fired until his ammunition was exhausted. He then continued to fight with his carbine. During a particularly heavy barrage of shell fire, he rushed out to rescue a wounded comrade. Through his untiring efforts, Corporal Crimmins assisted greatly in smashing the enemy counterattack.

Major John J. Luther, Jr., (then first lieutenant), Infantry, United States Army, a member of the 83d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by gallantry in action near Coulot, France, on 6 July 1944, while in command of Company B, 329th Infantry Regiment. When the enemy made an unexpected heavy counterattack during his absence at the battalion command post, he returned to his company, seized a Browning automatic rifle, and personally launched and led a small group of his men in a daring sortie against the flank of the hostile attack which repelled it. Returning to his lines, Major Luther was painfully wounded by enemy mortar fire. He refused to go to the aid station, but reorganized his company, reorganized the lines, and reestablished the positions, despite heavy enemy fire. As a result of Major Luther's aggressiveness, disregard for personal safety, and leadership, the entire battalion position was saved.
