1..DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action against an enemy during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted man:

Staff Sergeant Harry R. Shirey (Army serial No.), Air Corps, Army of the United States, a member of the 339th Bombardment Squadron, 96th Bombardment Group (H), displayed extraordinary heroism in action near Bremen, Germany, on 8 May 1944. As tail gunner of a B-17, which was crippled by fighter attacks, he refused to bail out, although painfully wounded in both legs, but remained at his guns to keep the attacking enemy at bay until the rest of the crew could safely leave the airplane. Sergeant Shirey continued to return the enemy fire until the B-17 exploded, when he barely escaped with his life.

II..DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished-Service Medal (second Oak-Lenf Cluster), for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

General Lucius D. Glay , United States Army. As United States Military Governor in Germany and Commander in Chief of United States Forces in Europe. 15 March 1947 to 15 May 1949.

III. SILVER STAR.—1. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1018 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted man:

Staff Sergeant Bernhard A. Stensler (Army serial No.) (then private first class), Infantry, Army of the United States, displayed gallantry in action against the armed enemy at Leyte, Philippine Islands, on 28 February 1045. A party of eight men sent out to secure water from a nearby stream was fired on by the enemy. Three members of the group were wounded, two were killed, and the remainder sought cover. Sergeant Stensler, who was leading a carrying party close by, immediately, upon witnessing the action and with total disregard for his personal safety, rushed to the aid of the wounded men, necessitating his crossing 300 yards of open terrain which was under continuous enemy fire. Upon reaching one of the wounded men, he dragged him approximately 100 yards to a covered position, where he administered first aid. Sergeant Stensler's heroism was instrumental in saving his comrade's life and greatly inspired those who wilnessed his action.

2. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918) the Silver Star (first Oak-Leaf Cluster) for gallantry in action during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Captain James O. Piper, (then second lieutenant), Infantry, United States Army, a member of the 12th Infantry Regiment, displayed gallantry in action against an armed enemy near Mortain, France, during the period 8 to 11 August 1644. The 12th Infantry Regiment, attached to the 30th Infantry Division, was engaged in stopping the German drive to break out to the Normandy beaches, and was heavily engaged with the enemy in a further effort to relieve an infantry battalion of the division surrounded in Mortain. The 2d Battalion, 12th Infantry Regiment, of which Captain Piper was a member, became virtually isolated during its attacks to reach the St. Barthelmy-Mortain road. Captain Piper, perceiving the seriousness of the situation and despite intense enemy artillery and small-arms fire, volunteered to make frequent trips, both day and night, throughout the period to the main lines of resistance on reconnaissance and to the various company strong points in order to bring in urgently needed ammunition, replacements, food, and water. Captain Piper was an outstanding example to the officers and men of the battalion and his ingenuity and heroism were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service.

IV._SOLDIER'S MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved 2 July 1926 (WD Bul 8, 1926), the Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted men:

Corporal Ben C. Bailey (), United States Air Force, displayed heroism at the risk of his life while participating in the rescue of four survivors of a United States Navy PB4Y2 aircraft which crashed and burned in Argentia Harbor on 21 October 1947. With utter disregard for his safety, he swam to the burning wreckage in icy cold water and successfully rescued one of the survivors. Corporal Bailey's disregard for personal safety, and his courage, fortitude, initiative, and devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the United States Air Force.

Private First Class Howard L. Brown (Army serial No.), Corps of Military Police, United States Army, displayed heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy on 20 February 1948. While on duty in a Tokyo, Japan, elevated railway station, he saw a soldier climb down from the platform to the train tracks. He shouted to the soldier to get off the tracks, but the soldier apparently failed to hear the order. A train was rapidly approaching on the same track. When the train was approximately 50 feet from the soldier, Private Brown, with disregard for his safety, leaped from the platform onto the tracks and pulled the soldier to a position of safety against the railing on the far side. His quick thinking saved the soldier from being crushed between the moving train and the concrete station platform. Private Brown's heroic action is worthy of the highest commendation and reflects great credit on the military service.

Master Sergeant Harold L. Mitchell () (then warrant officer, junior grade), United States Air Force, displayed heroism at the risk of his life while participating in the rescue of four survivors of a United States Navy PB4Y2 aircraft which crashed and burned in Argentia Harbor on 21 October 1947. He swam out in the icy cold water to the scene of the blazing crash, although there was imminent danger from exploding gasoline. Sergeant Mitchell's utter disregard for his personal safety and his initiative, fortitude, and devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the United States Air Force.
