First Lieutenant David S. Johnson, 0974259, Artillery, United States Army, a member of Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, 74th Antiaircraft Artillery Battalion, 18th Antiaircraft Artillery Group, distinguished himself by heroism at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania on 5 January 1954. When Lieutenant Johnson was notified that an apartment in the building across from his own was on fire he unhesitatingly rushed to the scene of the fire and attempted to enter the burning apartment which was located on the second floor. Being partially overcome by the intense smoke and heat he was unsuccessful in his first attempt and returned to the ground floor for air. With utter disregard for his personal safety he returned to the blazing apartment to make a positive determination that the occupants were either already out or attempt evacuation. He crawled into the apartment and found an unconscious woman on the floor. Unable to stand, owing to the intensity of the smoke and flames, he dragged her and himself out into the hall where he was assisted in the completion of the rescue, removing the victim to a place of safety. The prompt, courageous, and determined action taken by Lieutenant Johnson in the face of grave danger reflects distinct credit on himself and the military service.

Sergeant First Class Alan B. Maggio (Service No. RA12262338) United States Army, a member of the 77th Special Forces Group (Airborne), distinguished himself by heroism at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, on 30 March 1954. While in his unit supply room, he heard a loud crash. Running out he observed that a C-119 aircraft had crashed into a mess hall building in the area. Realizing the possibilities of an explosion, he first tried to warn personnel away from the area. With complete disregard for his own safety, he then ran into the flaming wreckage to assist in the rescue of injured personnel. He remained until all personnel had been removed and the fire was completely under control. Sergeant First Class Maggio's prompt and courageous action was instrumental in saving the lives of injured personnel and reflects great credit on himself and the military service.

Corporal Orval D. McGee, United States Army, a member of the 77th Special Forces Group (Airborne), distinguished himself by heroism at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, on 30 March 1954. He was in his barracks attending a scheduled class when he heard the sound of airplane engines, followed by a loud crash. Running out of the building, he observed that a C-119 aircraft had crashed into a mess hall in the area. He ran to the scene of the wreck and, without regard for his personal safety, entered the blazing debris to assist in the rescue of trapped personnel. He remained until the injured personnel were removed and then assisted in fighting the fire until it was completely under control. Corporal McGee's prompt and courageous action was instrumental in saving the lives of injured personnel and reflects great credit on himself and the military service.

Sergeant First Class Joseph Pastula, United States Army, a member of the 77th Special Forces Group (Airborne), distinguished himself by heroism at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, on 30 March 1954. He was in his barracks conducting a class when he heard the roar of airplane engines, followed by a loud crash. Running out of the building, he observed that a C-119 aircraft had crashed into a mess hall building in the area. He immediately ran to the scene of the accident and, without regard for his personal safety, entered the flaming debris to aid in the rescue of injured, trapped personnel. He continued to assist until all personnel were removed and the fire was fully under control. Sergeant First Class Pastula's prompt and courageous action was undoubtedly instrumental in saving the lives of injured personnel and reflects great credit on himself and the military service.

Private Gordon Wireman, Signal Corps, United States Army, a member of Student Company 11, The Southeastern Signal School, Camp Gordon, Georgia, distinguished himself by heroism in Augusta, Georgia, on 9 May 1954. While walking past a residence on Walker Street he and a comrade observed a fire in the downstairs portion of an old, frame type, two-story building. Even though informed that the building was believed to be unoccupied, with initiative and foresight he unhesitatingly entered the flaming building shouting alarms, attempting to arouse any possible residents. Two persons were discovered vainly attempting to escape from the second floor. Despite the raging flames and intense smoke, Private Wireman rushed to the assistance of the victims without regard for his personal safety. Through his heroic action the two occupants were rescued and brought to a place of safety. Private Wireman's prompt and courageous action was responsible for preventing serious injury or possible death to the two trapped persons and reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

V.-BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, WD Bul. 3, 1944), the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States on the dates indicated is awarded posthumously to the following-named officer:

First Lieutenant Roger B. Kirchofer, Infantry, United States Army, a member of the 38th Infantry Regiment, 2d Infantry Division distinguished himself by heroic conduct in action against the enemy in the Mag-Gol sector of Korea, on 18 and 19 May 1951. Units of the 1st Battalion had suffered serious casualties, their organization was disrupted and the remnants of the battalion were encircled by enemy forces. Lieutenant Kirchofer assumed command and, with disregard to hazards to his own life, he led his comrades in a determined effort to effect a break through. Although the enemy troops were located in positions on higher ground and were delivering heavy fire against the surrounded troops, an attack was launched which succeeded in forcing the enemy to withdraw with heavy casualties. Upon reaching the area where it was expected to join with friendly forces, Lieutenant Kirchofer observed that the area was completely occupied by hostile forces. Lieutenant Kirchofer then ordered his men to break up into small groups and to move back to friendly lines under cover of darkness. Lieutenant Kirchofer voluntarily remained in charge of his wounded comrades in order to surrender to the enemy with hopes that the wounded would receive medical attention. Lieutenant Kirchofer's courage, determination of purpose and unwavering devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

As a member of a raiding party behind enemy lines, Mr. Chong actively participated in the completion of a special mission which significantly assisted the intelligence effort in Korea. This daring operation resulted in the capture of a field grade officer and other enemy personnel, together with numerous important documents, providing extremely timely and useful information on many phases of the enemy situation. The heroism displayed by Mr. Chong in the performance of these hazardous duties contributed greatly to the successful accomplishment of a difficult mission. Mr. Chong's courageous actions and devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the Republic of Korea.

Corporal (then private first class) French L. Kennedy

Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company L, 34th Infantry Regiment, 24th Infantry Division, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in Korea from 2 July to 15 July 1950. During a delaying and covering action fought by his unit in the "P'yongtaek-Taejon" area Corporal Kennedy displayed outstanding courage while serving as a machine gunner. Corporal Kennedy constantly exposed himself to danger in order to deliver effective fire against the enemy. Corporal Kennedy voluntarily remained behind during withdrawals to lay a base of machine gun fire which contributed materially in saving lives of friendly forces and inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy. His actions helped to break up hostile attacks, delaying and disorganizing the main attacking forces. Corporal Kennedy's courageous actions and devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

Mr. Chong Moon Kon, Republic of Korea civilian, distinguished himself by heroism in action against the enemy in Korea, on 12 April 1953. As a member of a raiding party behind enemy lines, Mr. Chong actively participated in the completion of a special mission which significantly assisted the intelligence effort in Korea. This daring operation resulted in the capture of a field grade officer and other enemy personnel, together with numerous important documents, providing extremely timely and useful information on many phases of the enemy situation. Mr. Chong's courageous actions and devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the Republic of Korea.

Captain Arthur H. Lozano, Artillery, United States Army, a member of the 38th Field Artillery Battalion, 2d Infantry Division, distinguished himself by heroic achievement in action against the enemy near Changyong, Korea, on 4 September 1950. At approximately 0800 hours, a sizable enemy force which had entrenched themselves on "Hill 285," began delivering deadly accurate mortar, machine gun, and small arms fire in preparation for an attack upon Headquarters Battery, which was under complete observation of the enemy. As the fire direction center tent was riddled by shell fragments during this intense volume of fire, Captain Lozano ordered his men to take cover. Then, aided only by a chart operator and a computer, Captain Lozano continuously exposed himself to the full view of the enemy for approximately 2 hours in order to move about and direct and observe the fire of an artillery battery upon the enemy. Disregarding his personal safety, and ignoring the mortar rounds continuously bursting in the area, Captain Lozano succeeded in silencing the enemy fires and stopped the impending attack upon Headquarters Battery. Captain Lozano's unflinching courage, tenacity, and devotion to duty reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

2. By direction of the President, under Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. Master Sergeant Joseph F. Dutra Artillery, United States Army, distinguished himself by heroic achievement near Kunu-ri, Korea, on 3 December 1950. Sergeant Dutra was one of a group of approximately one hundred American soldiers captured by the enemy and being held in a small, crowded railroad station under heavy guard and warned with threats by their captors to remain out of sight of United Nations aircraft which were sweeping the entire area to destroy abandoned American equipment. When an American truck was sighted parked next to the station, friendly aircraft commenced diving and strafing the vehicle and station. Realizing that the continuation of this strafing would imperil the lives of his comrades, Sergeant Dutra rushed out in the face of the next strafing effort, furiously waving a cerise signal panel which he had retained. The pilot then flew in low, satisfactorily identifying the friendly soldiers and ceased the air strike on that target. Sergeant Dutra's quick thinking and prompt, courageous action reflect credit on himself and the military service.

3. By direction of the President, under Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. II, WD Bul. 3, 1944) the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for heroic Sergeant First Class Alfred Irelan (then sergeant), Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company C, 19th Infantry Regiment, 24th Division, distinguished himself by heroic conduct in action against the enemy near Onsan, Korea, on 4 November 1950. Sergeant Irelan displayed outstanding leadership while in charge of a patrol assigned a difficult and hazardous mission to contact the enemy and secure vital information urgently required in order that adequate defense measures could be taken preparatory to an expected and imminent attack. Subsequent to the fierce and determined hostile action Sergeant Irelan's unit was assigned the mission of covering the forced withdrawal of his battalion. Despite the heavy enemy fire and a wound received during this action, Sergeant Irelan skilfully deployed his men and laid down an effective covering fire, successfully delaying the enemy and inflicting heavy casualties on the attackers. After friendly elements had accomplished the withdrawal, he successfully led his squad back to the main line of resistance. Sergeant Irelan's outstanding leadership and courageous actions reflect credit on himself and the military service.

Captain Louis Rockwerk, Infantry, United States Army, a member of Company C, 19th Infantry Regiment, 24th Infantry Division, distinguished himself by heroic conduct in action against the enemy near Anju, Korea, on 4 November 1950. His unit occupied defensive positions on a small hill which was dominated by strong enemy positions located on commanding terrain features overlooking friendly defenses. Hostile forces launched a strong, determined assault, attacking from the rear, delivering extremely heavy small arms and automatic weapons fire. Captain Rockwerk constantly exposed himself to enemy fire checking positions and organizing his unit for a possible counterattack. Despite the growing shortage of ammunition Captain Rockwerk directed accurately steady fire into the ranks of the enemy causing heavy casualties. When it became obvious that the attackers would overrun his position Captain Rockwerk successfully destroyed his vehicles and heavy weapons to prevent their capture. Captain Rockwerk's courageous actions, tenacity of purpose, and inspiring leadership reflect great credit on himself and the military service.
