I..DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL.—1. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1018 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Distinguished Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers:

Colonel Harold L. Taylor, , Military Police Corps, United States Army.

15 July 1952 to 5 May 1953. (This award supersedes the prior award of the Legion of Merit, as announced in General Orders No. 142, Headquarters, United States Army Forces, Far East, 25 May 1953.)

Major General Sanuel T. Williams, , United States Army. 18 July 1952 to 10 November 1954.

2. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 48, 1918), the Distinguished Service Medal (first Oak Leaf Cluster) for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility during the period indicated is awarded to the following-named officer:

Major General David A. D. Ogden, , United States Army. 14 November 1951 to 2 January 1953.

II. SILVER STAR.—1. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress, approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action is awarded to the following-named officer:

, Infantry, Republic of Korea Army, distin-Captain Shin Kum Sul, guished himself by gallantry in action against an armed enemy of the United Nations Command in the area of "M-1 Hill" in Korea on 19 June 1953. After several attempts to recapture this important outpost had failed due to stubborn enemy resistance. Captain Shin personally set out at the head of two of his squads at 0300 hours in another attempt to accomplish his unit's mission of retaking "M-1 Hill." Proceeding up the hill, they encountered heavy enemy machine gun fire which grew progressively more intense. As they neared the crest, their advance was momentarily halted by an enemy heavy machine gun fire that was particularly damaging. Carefully observing and studying the situation, Captain Shin sent one squad to neutralize this heavy machine gun while he encircled the machine gun bunker and approached from the flank. Upon reaching the position, he immediately joined his men whom he found already engaged in hand to hand combat with the enemy. Despite the fact that he was wounded in the foot by an exploding enemy grenade, he rushed the machine gun bunker from which the grenade had been thrown. As the enemy attempted to flee, Captain Shin threw a hand grenade into their midst and the exploding grenade resulted in the death of two of the enemy and led to the capture of a third. The courageous and inspiring leadership demonstrated by Captain Shin contributed greatly in the successful TAGO 8606B-Feb. 810484°-55 accomplishment of his unit's mission and reflects great credit on himself and the military service.

2. By direction of the President, under the act of Congress, approved 9 July 1918 (WD Bul. 43, 1918), the Silver Star for gallantry in action, previously awarded to the following-named enlisted man is confirmed:

Corporal Niles R. Thompson, , (then Private First Class), Artillery, United States Army, a member of Battery C, 60th Coast Artillery Regiment (Antiaircraft), distinguished himself by gallantry in action on Corregidor, Philippine Islands, on or about 20 April 1942. When a fellow crew member was trapped outside of the gun position during a heavy enemy artillery attack and was wounded, Corporal Thompson unhesitatingly left his sheltered position and rushed to the aid of the wounded soldier. Despite the continued hostile shelling he successfully brought his comrade to safety. Corporal Thompson's courageous action, without regard for his personal safety, reflects great credit on himself and the military service.

V._SOLDIER'S MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under the act of Congress, approved 2 July 1926 (WD Bul. 8, 1926), the Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy on the dates indicated is awarded to the following-named officer and enlisted men:

, Ordnance Corps, United States Army. Sergeant Vincent Leechi. a member of Detachment No. 3, 1262d Army Service Unit, distinguished himself by heroism at Fort Dix, New Jersey, on 7 November 1952. Sergeant Leochi, upon hearing an explosion rushed to the impact area of a rifle-grenade range and discovered that a detail of men had entered the impact area while proceeding to the scene of a brush fire. Being fully cognizant of the density of unexploded grenades in the area and without regard for his personal safety, he proceeded into the area where he administered first aid to three wounded men, prevented panic, and led the detail from the impact area to safety. While leading the men out to safety, a second explosion occurred. Sergeant Lecchi found four men were injured and the range officer killed by this explosion. He again administered first aid, prevented panic, and led the remaining men of this group to a place of safety. The prompt, courageous, and determined action taken by Sergeant Lecchi in twice entering a hazardous area, preventing panic, administering aid to the wounded and guiding uninjured men from the impact area, reflect distinct credit on himself and the military service.

. United States Army, Private First Class Marshal E. Ledford, a member of Company A, 728th Military Police Battalion, distinguished himself by heroism at Yongdung-po, Korea, on 8 August 1954. Private Ledford was leaving the company area when he heard a loud explosion in the near vicinity. Rushing to the scene of the disaster, he found a derailed Korean passenger train engulfed in flames. With complete disregard for his personal safety, Private Ledford entered the blazing cab of the engine where two Korean nationals were trapped, removed them to an adjacent rice paddy, extinguished their burning garments, and assisted them to a place of safety for further Private Ledford then hastened back to the wreckage and, despite the raging flames and intense smoke, continued to search for injured personnel. Altogether he entered the train six times to escort or carry survivors out of the danger zone. Private Ledford's calm and courageous actions were highly instrumental in saving the lives of eight Korean nationals, reflecting credit on himself and the military service.

, Corps of Engineers, United Corporal Gerald W. Mozenter, States Army, a member of the Engineer Fire Fighting Company, 8075th Army Unit, distinguished himself by heroism in Pusan, Korea, on 18 August 1954. Corporal Mozenter was inspecting fire fighting equipment near the pier at Pusan Harbor when he and a comrade observed unusual actions of a young Korean girl on the sea wall and, realizing she contemplated suicide, they immediately approached her in an attempt to prevent her from leaping into the sea. Unheeding their efforts to dissuade her she broke away from them and threw herself into the water, at that time whipped into lashing waves and treacherous currents by the high winds of "Typhoon Grace." Without hesitation and with complete disregard for his own safety, Corporal Mozenter plunged into the turbulent waters fully clothed, swam to the stricken girl, and pulled her to safety. His prompt and courageous action in the face of danger undoubtedly saved the life of the Korean national and elicited deep respect and high commendation from his comrades and the people of Korea. Corporal Mozenter's courageous action reflects great credit on himself and upholds the esteemed traditions of the military service.

Sergeant First Class Outford K. Potter, , Infantry, United States Army, a member of Detachment 9, 3320th Area Service Unit, Raleigh, North Carolina, distinguished himself by heroism at Raleigh, North Carolina, on 17 September 1954. Sergeant Potter sighted an armed fugitive who was being pursued by a city policeman. With complete disregard for his own safety he also pursued the fugitive, captured, disarmed, and restrained him until the police arrived placing him under arrest. Sergeant Potter's heroism and unhesitating action exemplified the highest type of citizenship and reflect great credit on himself and the military service.

Second Lieutenant George A. Vaillancourt, , Artillery, United States Army, distinguished himself by heroism while serving as officer in charge of a troop movement between the Islands of Hokkaido and Honshu, Japan, on 26 September 1954. The "Toya Maru," heavily laden with passengers and cargo, was buffeted by merciless, high velocity winds and floundered in a raging, turbulent sea. When the ferry began to list, Lieutenant Vaillancourt sought the services of an interpreter and personally brought his men from assigned quarters below deck to the 2d Class Salon area, where life belts were issued to them. Throughout a harrowing 4-hour period, Lieutenant Vaillancourt's calm steadying influence proved a source of inspiration and courage to both the troops under his command and to the civilian passengers. His selfless concern for others and keen sense of humor prevailed during the final terrifying moments before the ship capsized, and he was last seen issuing vivid instructions and aiding fellow passengers. Lieutenant Vaillancourt's intrepid leadership and consummate devotion to duty minimized panic and afforded greater opportunity for escape from the ill-fated vessel, reflecting distinct credit on himself and the military service.

VI.BRONZE STAR MEDAL.—By direction of the President, under Executive Order 9419, 4 February 1944 (sec. III, WD Bul. 1944), the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States during the periods indicated is awarded to the following-named officers:
